It Always Something (Title)
By Antonio Ming (Playwright)

(Setting and Stage Notes in Parentheses)

We find Antonio sitting next to a fountain in the courtyard of a fancy hotel. He is alone texting on his phone. No one else is in the courtyard. We hear the soothing sounds of the fountain and trendy techno music coming from the hotel sound system.

Antonio

(Puts down his phone on the ledge of the fountain and takes a sip of coffee from a paper cup. Antonio grimaces and scowls at the cup of coffee.)

This is burnt! They always burn it! That's the last time I'll have a cup of coffee here.

Valerie

(Valerie the server enters. She is dressed in clean black pants and a crisp white shirt. A bright pink name tag is pinned on her left pocket.)

I don't know why you buy coffee here. It's so much better down the street.

Antonio

(Looking perplexed)
Don't you work here?

Valerie

Not for long.

Antonio

I was just about to apply for a job here.

Valerie

Well, don't.
